ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

The old New England saying, "If you don't like the weather, wait a minute" has rarely been more true than this year. Of course, we've had to wait a few El Niño/La Niña years, but old-time winter has returned. On average, we've had snow every other day since early December. Throw in spells of sleet, freezing rain, and record low temperatures, and it's little wonder that we fantasize about a radio meet on a tropical island.

Old Man Winter is definitely in the driver's seat as he races in all directions across the country. But, once in a while, he slows down to give us a break, and we've put in our order for just that on Sunday, February 18 — a sunny day for Radio XXXII, the show that A.R.C. runs for the Greater Boston Antique Radio Collectors. We look forward to seeing you there.

Meanwhile, we can dream of those warm spring and summer days when yards can be habitats for sales instead of snowmen. Dick Desjarlais' article on his rare yard sale finds reminds us to leave no stone unturned in the search for antique radio treasures. Serious collectors like Dick keep their eyes and ears open constantly and always ask questions that might have surprising answers.

Dick's article represents all that is best in collecting — it is a collaboration of sources and generous people who are dedicated to the preservation of old radios. His habit of frequenting meets, shows, and yard sales paid off in the subjects of his article — an early Mignon set and a De Forest RJ-4.

To find out more about the Mignon, Dick consulted me, knowing that I owned Mignons. I then consulted Lauren Peckham, a Mignon authority. At a Rhode Island meet, Dick chanced upon help in restoring the De Forest RJ-4, which he had found in pieces. Best of all, he wrote about his experience so that all of us can benefit from it. In short, the unusual happens, if you have the time and patience to look for it.

Wally Worth also seeks out the unusual, researches it, and then sets out to restore it. In the case of his Clapp-Eastham crystal set, Wally wasn't sure what he had until he found a Sears catalog photo, which validates the set. Knowing that it was a manufactured set enhanced its value and assisted in its restoration.

Richard Arnold's article about who made sets sold by chain stores ties in to the above story of Wally's Sears Catalog Clapp-Eastham photo. And in Radio Miscellanea you'll find a connection made between the Universal tombstone in the January Photo Review and Wells-Gardner, through Larry Seyler's research in Rider's manuals. These information-seeking collectors do us all a great service.

Only from America's heartland would we have news of a farm tractor radio — surely a "first" in A.R.C.'s Photo Review. We've had farm sets and windchargers, but never a tractor radio. This unusual set tops even the World Radio dog that might well have been used like the sailing ship doorstop by the same company. Keep those oddities coming!

Two regular reporters of auctions, Ron Ramirez and Ray Chase, deserve special thanks this month for sharing with us two auctions that totalled over $60,000. Eric's 11th Annual Auction featured many interesting items which, had they been in better condition, would have brought higher prices. But, restorers went home with many nice winter projects.

When Ray Chase, who has reported on many an auction, uses the word "spectacular" to describe one, it must be an extraordinary event. The Jenack Galleries conducted the Hubert Johnson estate auction in a highly professional manner. The company offered a well organized catalog and allowed telephone bids, a rarity in radio auctions, as well as "left" and mail-in or faxed bids. This practice broadens the potential buyers' market and creates more excitement. The top item was an Air King Skyscraper selling at $3,500. Over a dozen items, half of which were fine early phonographs, went for $1,000 or more.

Failures in fixed capacitors are nothing new, but Delbert Bivens sheds some light on a defect he encountered in restoring his Philco 16 radios. He reports that if everything else in a radio seems to check out OK and you are still experiencing tuning problems, check the tuning capacitor for high resistance between the stator plates and the capacitor's terminals. Tips like this can save many a set.

Radio Miscellanea includes a variety of responses to reports, articles, and queries. Memories ranging from radio in Chile in the 1930s to radio in World War II add to our sense of the importance of radio to us in both personal and historic terms.

Internet. The response to our Web site remains positive. We remind you to check it out and to read the ads as soon as they are released.

Coming Radio Events. Over 40 events are scheduled for this month. Of note is the Houston Vintage Radio Association's 3-day Annual Convention on Feb. 24, as well as the Southern California Antique Radio Society's Annual Auction and the Southern Antique Radio Society's Winter Indoor Mega Meet, both on Feb. 17. As always, we hope to see you at the Greater Boston Antique Radio Collectors' Radio XXXII meet in Westford, Mass., on Feb. 18.

Happy Collecting!

John V. Terrey, Editor

ON THE COVER

Inspired by Dick Desjarlais' lead article on his yard sale success, our cover features a Mignon RLC-6 and its little brother, the RLC-5, ca. 1917, both from your editor's collection. No, we didn't put the radios out in the snow — the photo is a digital composite of the sets against our snowy New England landscape.

Yard Sales — Radio's Best Friend!
Mignon and DeForest Finds

BY DICK DESJARLAIS

The search is a part of everyday life for a collector. Dick Desjarlais' success story reminds us never to resist the antique shop or yard sale where we can ask the key question, "any radios?" (Editor)

I want to share with you a yard sale experience that truly reflects the often used phrase, "yah nevah know" (Bostonese for "you never know"). Those three little words motivate many antique radio addicts, including myself, to haunt yard sales on summery weekends. (Same as garage sales, tag sales, whatever, depending on where you live.)

If you haven't tried yard "saling" for that radio on your wish list, or for radios you would fix up and resell, then my experience might just tempt you to give the yard sale circuit a whirl. Granted, yard sale searches for a highly specialized commodity like antique radios take time, persistence and patience. It takes a willingness to expect and accept disappointment nine times out of ten. But it is the tenth, or even the hundredth time that the "big hit" happens, sometimes in a most unexpected way. It is the big hit that makes the tedious effort most worthwhile.

THE BIG HIT

For me, the big hit of my fourteen years of yard saling happened this summer, and in my own home town! On this particular Sunday I had had nothing but "no" answers to the question I always ask "Do you have any old radios?" By the way, I always ask, even though there might not be a radio in sight.

At the last stop for that morning, I again inquired, "Any old radios?" and again, the answer was "no." However, as I was walking away, a young fellow pulled up in his pickup truck with more fodder for the yard sale. His answer was also in the negative, but then he said, "I have a friend who lives just down the street who has lots of radios. Come on, I'll introduce you."

Figuring I had nothing to lose, I walked with him to a modest home, with a tired looking shed in the back yard. When the owner ushered me into the shed, an old cinder block structure, my first impression was of mildew, dampness, dirt and dust. Not a good beginning, I thought.

But in one corner, on the wet cement floor, and on musty shelves were several radios and various test instruments. In addition, there were miscellaneous radio parts in moldy cardboard cartons. I had to exercise care in lifting these, as they were so damp and mildewed that the bottoms just fell out. All in all, a sorry sight!

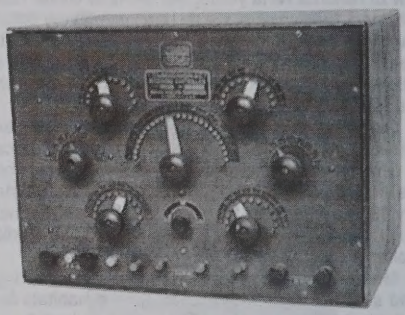

Figure 1. The Mignon Type RLC-6, No. 11, ca. 1917, a glorified crystal set, that proved to be a yard sale treasure.

I did notice a Westinghouse RC (RA-DA) in reasonable condition, and so expressed interest in that one item. However, the owner wished to move the entire lot so he could restore the shed for his own purposes. Considering that at least the Westinghouse RC was worth something, I paid him a very nominal amount for the whole lot. Not focusing much attention on the rest of the stuff I had just bought, a friend and I loaded up his pickup truck and left. I figured I would tackle the job of sorting out and cleaning up everything when I got home.

At this juncture, I had no idea of the surprises that awaited me. Back in the shop, one item that attracted my particular attention was a wooden cabinet, approximately 15 inches square, shown in Figure 1. The front panel was festooned with eight control knobs, six of which were multiposition tap switches. The remaining two controls were continuously variable and calibrated from 0 to 180 in steps of 20. The array of controls and their early design caused me to consider that this unit, whatever it was, could be of pre-1920s origin.

THE MIGNON TYPE RLC-6, NO. 11

At the top of this panel a nameplate, shown in Figure 2, identifies the set as "MIGNON RECEIVING CONTROLLER — Type RLC-6, No. 11." My curiosity was further heightened by the wax seal and notice on the back of the cabinet, shown in Figure 3. The notice reads:

NOTICE — IMPORTANT.

This instrument has been thoroughly tested and works perfectly. It is under seal and neither front nor back panel can possibly be removed without breaking same. If the seal is broken, it is not returnable. Nor will it be repaired at our expense, if the seal is broken. If you want us to repair the instrument, it must be returned to us with the seal unbroken.

Now I was completely mystified. What was so important about the innards of this Mignon Type RLC-6 that it required a seal that would break if either the back panel or the chassis were removed? I decided to call John Terrey of A.R.C. fame, with whom I have conducted business for many years. He would know what this Mignon thing is. He obviously did, for over the phone I heard him gasp, "Dick! you've got a Mignon? They are worth thousands!" It was my turn to gasp, and all I could say was, "What!"

I described the Type RLC-6 a little more and indicated that it was the 11th in its series and made in 1917. John explained that the Mignon was essentially a glorified crystal set. It turned out that he already had a couple of Mignons, but had been searching for more for a long while. It was no surprise then, that he offered to buy it on the spot to add to his Mignon collection.

Since I had opted not to break the seal on this rare, near mint set, I had no clue as to what the chassis looked like. But John came through with a photo of a similar chassis from another set in the Mignon series shown in Figure 4.

Ernest C. Mignon began his activity in the wireless business around 1910. By 1913 his building in Elmira, New York, was turning out receivers for radio Amateurs. Chartered in 1915, the Mignon Wireless Corp. then published a 16-page catalog featuring six tuners.

MORE HIDDEN TREASURES

My good fortune with the Mignon RLC-6 was only the beginning. As I gingerly pored through the rest of the collection, in one soggy box, I discovered a 3-inch diameter ceramic rheostat in fair condition. Standing alone, it generated little excitement.

However, in still another cruddy box was what appeared to be a spherical Audion tube, nesting precariously among two audio transformers and other tubes and parts. Even though the tube was enclosed in what seems to be its original cardboard sleeve, it is miraculous that the Audion is relatively intact. The glass envelope is unbroken, and the single wing screen grid and plate are intact, as are the wires connected to them.

However, the screw-type base to which the filament wires should be attached was missing. Luckily, I found a candelabra screw-type base in my junk box.

I thought, "Wow, so far so good — an intriguing rheostat and a spherical Audion!" But I wasn't prepared to discover in the last box, just begging to be matched with the ceramic rheostat and spherical Audion previously unearthed, a small wooden cabinet, with a prominent metal plate on the top. The plate declared this to be a "DEFOREST AUDION, U.S. Patent Nos. 836 070, 867-868, 879-532, 836-071, 867-878, 979-275, AND OTHER PATENTS, RADIO TEL. & TEL. N.Y., U.S.A." See Figure 5.

As you can imagine, by this time, my adrenaline was soaring. It appeared as though I had stumbled across the major parts for a De Forest detector! It was time to check Morgan McMahon's book Vintage Radio to confirm my find. Sure enough, there on page 171, was the exact image, with the caption, "DEFOREST

AUDION DETECTOR, TYPE RJ-4, 1909, COMPLETE."

The bottom of my RJ-4 was missing, leaving exposed 9 small, dry batteries, as shown in Figure 6. The label reads, "THE RELIABLE Semi-Dry Franco Battery — a wonderful battery made by a new process, giving remarkable results." The batteries are all Type 944, with what appears to be a coded expiration date: "Guarantee expires T18AQM." My good friend, Wally Worth, a prolific A.R.C. contributor, volunteered to make the missing base for the cabinet.

It didn't take me long to decide that the RJ-4 was a "keeper," so I decided not to put it on the market, at least not for a while.

However, the Yankee Tuneup, a combined radio meet and white elephant sale in East Greenwich, Rhode Island, was scheduled to meet the next weekend. I figured, why not do a little "show and tell" and take the RJ-4 for my colleagues to drool over. I made up a large sign that said "NOT FOR SALE — Please Do Not Handle" and displayed the RJ-4 and the spherical Audion on a small table.

The reaction was electrifying and immediate. Antique radio buffs fluttered around the RJ-4 like moths attracted to a lantern's flame: all jostling to get a closer look and to learn more about this rare 1909 radio artifact. Even though the Not For Sale sign was prominent, someone offered me a very substantial sum for the RJ-4, as is, and not even including the spherical Audion! Another person kindly volunteered to send me a copy of the original blue print of the RJ-4, which I gladly accepted.

Still another helpful person excitedly told me that an original rheostat for the RJ-4 was for sale in the White Elephant auction. (As an aside, I have found over the years that most radio collectors and dealers are always ready to share their knowledge with their colleagues.)

Given the tip about the rheostat in the auction, I rushed in to the building where the auction items were on display, and wrote down my bid offer. No other bid was made, so I now have the correct rheostat for the RJ-4. Figure 7 shows the difference, however slight, between the two rheostats. The one found in the shed, shown on the left, is 3½" in diameter, and a knob is mounted directly on the central shaft. The rheostat on the right, as depicted in Vintage Radio, is 3¼" in diameter, and has a small handle mounted on the end of the wiper arm.

Figure 8 shows the complete assembly with the correct rheostat on one end and the spherical Audion mounted in the screw-type base tube socket.

STILL MORE GOOD "STUFF"

As if the Mignon, the De Forest RJ-4 with the spherical Audion, and the Westinghouse RC were not enough, how about this partial listing of other "stuff" that I took home from the shed: a Hammarlund Super Pro, Type XD, early serial number, possibly a prototype; a Browning Visual Frequency Monitor; an H.O. Boehme Morse Code Recorder, Type 10-G; a Signal Corps Frequency Meter, BC-221 AK; a National Coil set, rack of three; Abbott Models MRT-3 and TR4 Ultra shortwave transceivers; an Atwater Kent Model 100 drum speaker; a Radiola III-A parts set; a T.R. McElroy MAC audio oscillator; plus various parts and tubes, some still unsorted.

All of the above was the good news. The disappointing side is that according to the seller, what I purchased was only about one-third of the collection it came from! Apparently, after loading his vehicle to the limit, he was forced to leave the rest behind.

On the other hand, if I hadn't made the effort to search out yard sales that day in the first place, I would not have stumbled across at least a portion of what must have been quite a collection. And that is the main point of this article. Start with the confidence that there are still some fine radio artifacts waiting to be discovered at yard sales. But you must follow a simple basic premise: Nothing will happen unless you generate the patience, discipline, and perseverance to help make it happen.

EPILOGUE

One final note. As I mentioned earlier, I paid a very nominal amount for everything in the shed, partly because I truly had no idea of the extent of the huge load I had carried away. Once I realized what I had, I felt it would only be fair to share my good fortune with the seller, especially since this young family seemed to be just scraping by. With this in mind, I mailed a check to the seller in an amount several times over what I had initially paid. In return, I received the following letter, which I shall always treasure more than any material treasure I might ever find at any yard sale:

Dear Mr. Desjarlais,

Thank you for the gracious check! You are a man of great integrity. You have my deepest respect. As you can imagine, three little boys tend to get expensive, and this money will help to provide us some things we really need. I will certainly keep an eye out for more equipment. I hope to do business with you again. Many thanks.

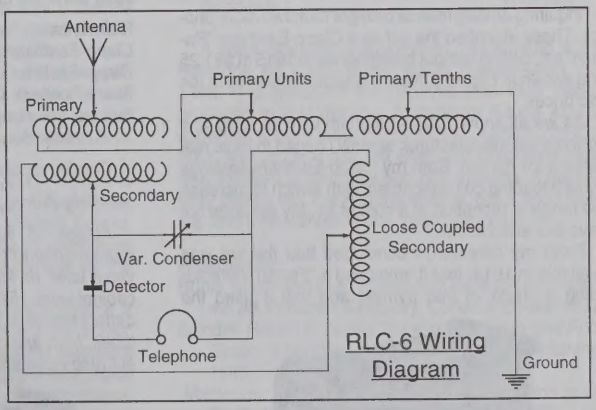
Dick Desjarlais is a longtime A.R.C. contributor. His interest in radio began at age 14 when he was an apprentice in a radio repair shop. This interest renewed itself when he retired from school administration, and since 1987, he has been an active collector and dealer.

The RLC-6
From Catalog R7, ca. 1917
Mignon Wireless Corporation, Elmira, N. Y.

CATALOG COURTESY OF LAUREN PECKHAM

The RLC-6 embraces all the good qualities known in the line of Mineral Detector Receiving Apparatus. This set contains a Mignon-Loose-Coupler Receiving Apparatus and Master Switch, (as described with RLC-5). In conjunction with the loose coupler is a specially constructed Rigid Vario Coupler of the Mignon ring type, giving this set a duplex tuning faciility, which is plainly shown on the accompanying diagram, also giving condenser connection, when the switch [not shown in the diagram] indicates "L". The three wavelength capacities interlap each other considerably, and numerous signals can be received with all three circuits, which, however, will be strongest in their proper designations. The various circuit combinations afforded by its ingeniously devised switching arrangement, and the opposing positions of the variable inductances in the two couplers, have made the RLC-6 a marvel of efficiency in selectivity and sensitiveness, which is contantly commented upon by our satisfied customers.



An Early Clapp-Eastham Crystal Set

BY WALLY WORTH

If you think that there is no more "good stuff" to be found, Wally Worth's story of his early crystal set may offer some encouragement. Beneath the dirt and grime, he found a gem. (Editor)

When I acquired the crystal set shown in Figure 1, in a trade, I did not know its age and value, as it was very dirty and shopworn. In cleaning it up and becoming acquainted with its parts, I began to see its real significance.

First I wanted to discern the manufacturer. Since the enclosure for the variable condenser was missing, I didn't know that the original glass enclosure had had etched into the glass the name "Blitzen" — a label associated with Clapp-Eastham. Thus, I had lost this tie-in to the set.

However, when I disassembled the parts, I discovered the name Clapp-Eastham stamped into the back of the detector holder. So, I realized I had an early crystal set made by Clapp-Eastham in Cambridge, Massachusetts, a few miles from my hometown.

In Crystal Clear, Volume 2, I found a photo of the same set marketed by Sears Roebuck & Co. as the "Cruiser Receiving Set." The Sears catalog listing is reproduced in Figure 2. The text says that the set will be shipped direct from the factory in Massachusetts — undoubtedly, Clapp-Eastham. The price was $19.25.

A CLAPP-EASTHAM "RADION" SET

Inquiring among friends brought forth two more photos. These identified the set as a Clapp-Eastham "Radion" set, selling without headphones in 1915 at $21.25 and shown in Figure 3. Note the slight difference in the two prices

As we all know, Clapp-Eastham was an early and honored set manufacturer, so now I began to have real respect for my set. Both my Clapp-Eastham catalogs show a loading coil attachment with switch to increase the range of reception at a cost of $4. My set does not have this attachment.

From my research, I concluded that the set was available in 1915, that it employed a "Ferron" detector using a chunk of iron pyrites, and that it used the Blitzen variable condenser to tune the loose coupler transformer. The loose coupler itself is remarkable in that it is 6½" in diameter, larger than most others. The base of the set is walnut and measures 10½" x 14".

I had to rewind a small portion of both the primary and secondary coils of the loose coupler, but wanted to keep the restoration to a minimum, so I stopped there. However, I did make an enclosure for the Blitzen condenser out of a cardboard tube with black finish. All other parts are original.

At age 15, Wally Worth began saving his paper route money to buy parts for 1-tube sets. In 1986, 50 years later, he started to collect anything that needed cabinet work. His diverse collection ranges from 1920s battery sets to AC, transistor, and multiband sets. Early tubes, horn and cone speakers, and even novelty sets are also included.

Brand Name Radios of the 1940s

BY RICHARD ARNOLD

The manufacture and branding of radios for sale by chain stores was prevalent during the 1940s. Richard Arnold provides some details of this aspect of radio manufacturing and merchandising. (Editor)

In the years from 1930 through 1940, such companies as Philco, Zenith, Emerson, and Galvin (Motorola) were vastly increasing their importance in the radio industry. At the same time, other companies with less efficient sales departments were losing ground. The four leading radio manufacturing companies of the 1930s were RCA, Atwater Kent, Crosley, and Grigsby-Grunow.

Grigsby-Grunow's rise and fall was fairly rapid. It started in 1928, peaked as an industry leader in 1929, and failed as a company in 1934. Crosley, on the other hand, lost prominence every year until 1937 and peaked again in 1938-1939. By 1940, it had lost its market shares to below its 1930 levels.

CHAIN STORE BRANDS

By 1940, a very important development in radio merchandising methods was about to come upon the scene and rise to prominence. This was the movement of major sales outlets, such as Montgomery Ward and Sears, into the radio sales market. In addition, automobile chain stores like Western Auto, Goodyear and Firestone also started selling manufactured radio sets in their own names. This competition was a definite challenge to the four major companies' growth, and it helped to force down the prices of radio sets.

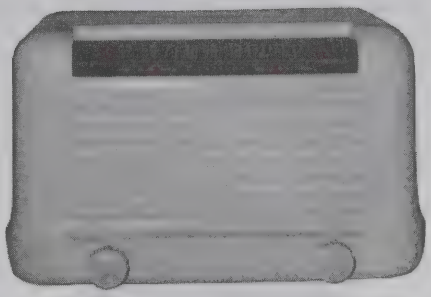
Though these stores sold radios under their own trade names, they did not, of course, make the sets themselves. In fact, my major reference books say that none of the chain stores manufactured their own sets, so I guess we will go with that.

Continental Radio and Television Corp. made the Admiral, Globe Trotter, Radiomaster and Star Raider brands, to name just a few. Belmont, Noblitt Sparks, Stewart-Warner, Farnsworth — all these companies did quite a bit of business making radio sets for the chain stores.

In researching this article, I found that Firestone is listed as the manufacturer of Air Chief in some books, while in others, it is not. The Roamer radio sets were made by Firestone. Belmont Radio Corporation made Goodyear Wings for Goodyear, as well as Classique, Crusader, Freshman, Imperial, Starck Classique, and Truetone for Western Auto.

Stewart-Warner made Aeromaster, Alemite and Ferrodyne. Farnsworth made Capehart. Wells-Gardner made Arcadia, Blackhawk, Fearnola, Fidelitone, Granada, Great Northern, Gulbransen, Hudson, Lexington, Skelco, Sky Rover, Solar, Star, Supertone, True Value, Universal and Whelco.

Many chain store manufacturers made radio sets that were equal in quality to the major brands. However, none of the companies, except for Farnsworth, had research facilities. In 1941, the estimated sales figures of the major chain stores were the following:



The Firestone Air Chief Model A4-26, "Newscaster," c. 1948.

Montgomery Ward	$900,000
Sears Roebuck	$700,000
Firestone	$375,000
Western Auto	$350,000
Gambles	$250,000
Goodyear	$150,000

A good example of a common 1940s radio is the Firestone Air Chief Model A4-26 (Newscaster), ca. 1948. It is typical of the "All-American Five" radios produced in that decade. A standard 5-tube AC/DC superhet, it uses tube Types 12SA7, 12SK7, 12SQ7, 50L6 and 35Z5. It has the Standard Broadcast band with a slide-rule dial scale and loop antenna. A painted ivory plastic set, it is nothing special, but a good looking, and representative late 1940s radio set.

PHOTO REVIEW

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

WORLD RADIO DOG – This heavy cast-iron dog has "World Radio" in relief on its base and is one of a pair in the owner's collection. It is believed to be one of the varied advertising doorstops, similar to the sailing ship doorstops, released by World Radio Co. Has anyone seen any other versions of this marketing tool? (John Ellsworth – East Hartford, CT)

RADAK MODEL DD – This 3-tube receiver was manufactured by the Clapp-Eastham Company of Cambridge, Mass., in 1925. The cabinet measures 15 3/8" long by 7 1/2" tall. In addition to this wooden version, a leatherette version was also produced. (Wally Worth – Wollaston, MA)

DETROLA MODEL 240 – This compact wooden radio was manufactured in 1938. The original knobs were hexagon-shaped. (Clark Trissell – Lincoln, NE)

AUDIOLA MODEL 710 – This 1931, 7-tube cathedral radio uses the following tubes: (2) Type 24; (2) Type 35; (1) Type 27; (1) Type 47; and (1) Type 80. (Mark Hewitt – Roscoe, IL)

SEARS AUTO RADIO – This DC-powered receiver was actually built for operation on a farm tractor. (Clark Trissell – Lincoln, NE)

METRO CONE SPEAKER – This paper cone speaker was manufactured by Metro Electric Co., Chicago, Illinois. The speaker measures 18" in diameter. The paper cone is a replacement obtained from Buford Chidester of Mount Wolf, Pa. The bronze metal stand is quite decorative. (Joseph G. Jackson – Macon, GA)

JEFFERSON MODEL NS40 – Manufactured by the Halson Radio and Television Company, this 1934 TRF midget measures only 10" tall. Its 4-tube complement consists of (1) Type 78, (1) Type 77, (1) Type 43, and (1) Type 25Z5. It has a resistance cord with a red jeweled pilot light. The right metal dial escutcheon is calibrated at 0-100, which is odd for 1934. The 2 knobs and nameplate are missing. (Ralph Jackson – Northboro, MA)

AUCTION & MEET REPORTS

Eric's 11th Annual Antique Radio Auction
Olney, Ilinois — October 29, 2000

REPORTED BY RON RAMIREZ

Eric's Auction Service held its eleventh annual antique radio auction on October 29, 2000, at the Seville Auction Barn in Olney, Illinois. A Midwestern tradition, this auction attracts collectors from Illinois and many surrounding states.

The quality of the items offered continues to improve, with very little in the way of parts sets and miscellaneous "junque" being offered this year. On the other hand, there were no Catalin sets and no Atwater Kent breadboard models, either. Battery sets from the 1920s dominated, and most sold rather cheaply. Several 1930s AC sets were also offered.

Highlights of this year's sale included a Grebe RORK at $530, a Zenith 9S367 console at $525, another Zenith 9S367 missing a knob and some pushbuttons but still bringing $375, and a Cutting & Washington Model 15 at $340. A Paragon DA-2 that was missing most of its internal components still brought $200.

An interesting note: Two Grebe Synchrophase sets went on the auction block in this sale. The set in nicer shape actually brought less — $160 — than another in poorer condition — $200.

Auctioneer Eric Bruner mentioned that the items sold brought a total of $15,000 in a 5-hour sale.

A sampling of the items sold follows. As usual, no model numbers were called out during the sale, so it was not possible to list every item that sold. Prices have been rounded to the nearest dollar.

e=excellent, vg=very good, g=good, f=fair, p=poor, wk=working, WT=with tubes, NT=no tubes, PS=power supply. (Note: Because most of the items could be described in "good" condition, no letter is shown next to most of the listings below.)

A warning: Auction prices are not current values. Our selection of auction items is not necessarily complete. A listing such as this cannot adequately include the condition of cabinets, chassis, transformers, tubes, the operating status of the set, and the inclusion of incorrect, restored or replica components, etc. Auction prices are the result of the excitement of the auction process, the skill of the auctioneer and the specific interests of the participants. Nevertheless, auction prices serve as useful references and as another element in the value determining process. The possibility of error always exists, and if we are notified, corrections will be reported.*

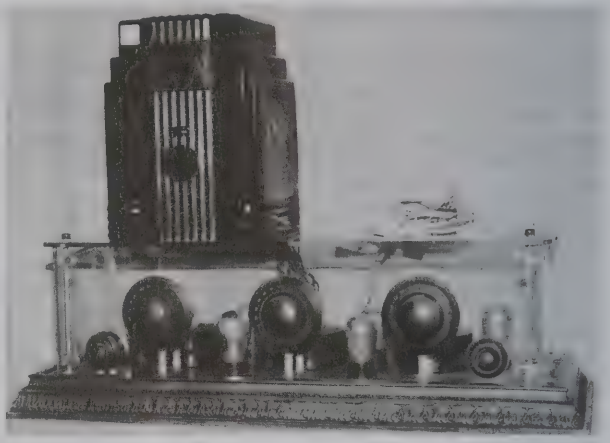
Jenack "Age of Edison" Auction
Hubert Johnson Estate
Chester, New York — June 4, 2000

REPORTED BY RAY CHASE

Seldom does one have the opportunity to attend an auction as spectacular as that held by the William J. Jenack Galleries in Chester, New York, on Sunday, June 4, 2000. This was the estate of Hubert Johnson of Freeport, New York, and although I did not know this person, he certainly had a collection to be proud of. The auction included telephones, lamps, vintage sewing machines, lanterns, phonographs, telegraphy, as well as radio equipment and other interesting items. I will limit my report to radios, telegraphy and phonographs.

The Jenack auction house has a large gallery and viewing was possible on the Friday and Saturday before the sale. This was fortunate as I was unable to attend the sale itself on Sunday due to a prior commitment. The viewing hours allowed me to see the items, take my photos on Friday, and take my chances with a few "left bids."



Two big sellers: top, an Air King 52 black Bakelite tombstone, 1933, selling at $3,500; bottom, a Clearfield TRF6 console receiver with a glass case mounted on a wood frame, 1925, selling at $1,300.

Jenack offered a very well organized, complete catalog of the sale. In addition, I was fortunate to have assistance from Norm Hertz of Staten Island, New York, and Joe Bentrovato of Dover, New Jersey, who were able to attend the sale and provide me with additional notes and comments. I much appreciated their help.

Although the auction included the "cream" of the collection, there were still two trailer loads of lesser radios and parts. Unfortunately, these were to be auctioned at a time that conflicted with the RadioActivity Meet by the Mid-Atlantic Antique Radio Club in Maryland. Also this auction was uncataloged, so I was unable to determine what changed hands there.

About 112 people attended the auction on Sunday and bidding was spirited with many prices on the high side. The auction started promptly at 11 A.M., and the sale was completed at 3:30 P.M. The auctioneer was William J. Jenack. A 10 percent buyer's premium, which is not included in the listed prices, was charged.

Unless otherwise indicated, the condition of all items was very good to excellent and nearly all sets had a full complement of tubes. As can be seen by the listing, a wealth of desirable collectors items was presented.

As a postscript, the highest priced radio was the black Air King 52 "Skyscraper" which went to a phone bidder for $3,500 even though there was a small chip out of the back of the case. Well, the buyer wanted it shipped immediately, and the auction house took it to a local firm for packing and shipping. You guessed it — when it arrived at the buyer's location, it was totally broken up and destroyed. Hope it was covered by insurance.

Rare Capacitor Problem

BY DELBERT BIVENS

Failures in fixed capacitors are old news to radio collectors, but Delbert Bivens' experience with a variable capacitor sheds light on a defect that can be difficult to identify. (Editor)

After I had rebuilt all those old tar-filled caps, installed new filters, etc., the radios still refused to play well, even with a good outside antenna. Tracking was not good on any band and only a few stations were received on the low end of the band. Setting the dial to about 600 Kc and feeding the antenna to the grid of the mixer, I received a local station at 1400 Kc. The oscillator tuned down to only about 1300 Kc when the dial setting was at 540 Kc.

When I checked the circuits, the coils and bandswitch were OK and were connected through the bandswitch to the bottom lugs of the sections of the tuning capacitor. However, the grid lead from the top of the tuning capacitor to the Type 77 tube had about 4 megohms between the grid cap and the bandswitch wiper!

Now to the tuning capacitor. The ends of the stator plates have a notch cut in them and are "staked" to very shiny end mounting plates. They are held in place by a small cadmium plated steel bar that is slipped into the notch. This construction is shown in Figure 2.

The small plated steel bars and the aluminum plates had oxidized and become a very high resistance or open connection even though they were still clamped very tight!

I removed the tuning capacitor and measured each capacitor section from the top terminal and also from the bottom terminal. The readings showed a large difference in capacitance for the same section — some readings were less than 20 mmF even with the plates completely closed!

Using some paper shims to maintain spacing of the plates, I worked on only one end of one section at a time. I loosened only two screws at a time and cut out a section of an internal-tooth lockwasher, slipping it between the steel bar and the end plate of each end of the four sections. I then retightened the screws.

I have no idea how many models Philco made that used this type of manufacturing process for the main tuning capacitor. But, now if things still don't work the way they should after all the obvious things are repaired, I always check between the capacitor terminal and stator plates for any unseen resistance or open circuits.

I have a fourth Philco Model 16 chassis that has the tuning capacitor missing. Maybe someone in the past realized something was wrong with it but never fixed or replaced it.

These sets have a 2-speed tuning system by a pull/push of the tuning knob. I find that the small drive tires can be replaced by suitable "O" rings obtained at an automotive air-conditioning shop. The large tire on the main dial is the same size as some automotive oil filter gaskets.

Quite an unusual place to get radio parts!!

More BC-148 Memories

Dear Editor:

The article in the October 2000 issue about the BC-148 brought back memories. During Army maneuvers in Tennessee in the spring of 1941, I was a private in the 102nd Combat Engineers, an old unit formed in New York City before World War I. We were a federalized National Guard unit before World War II. Based in Anniston, Alabama, we went on maneuvers all through southern Tennessee and over into Arkansas.

As a result of my interest in radio as a kid, I suggested to my captain that, instead of soldiers running paper messages from unit to unit, we should ask for radio equipment. Later, I was appalled to see a Signal Corps technician with a suitcase radio and a triangular loop antenna.

I think the unit that he had was not a BC-148 — it was much cruder. Ham radio operators had more sophisticated equipment. The modern cell phone and CB equipment is a far cry from that era.

Why I love A.R.C.

Dear Editor:

I was born in 1931, so radio is a main part of my life. But, because I was born in Chile and because of Chile's unusual geography, radio meant something different from radio in other countries. Chile is bordered by the sea on the west and a high cordillera on the east, and thus, was not easily reached by stations from the rest of the radio world. Also, the rich mineral composition of its soil made it almost impossible to obtain full communications between our cities, except by a national "chain" of linked radio stations. So, radio was almost a miracle in Chile, and picking up a Buenos Aires radio station broadcasting tangos in Santiago was something the neighborhood talked about for months. How different from what the Internet offers today!

My father, a radio fanatic, had some kind of sense of touch, a softness that I never knew, but I saw it in his hands and eyes when he got the station he wanted. Those memories of the magic power in my father's fingers operating those black knobs — something the Internet doesn't have — was the best part of my radio experience. There was my old man trying to capture from the ether the World War II news from London or Moscow during those years of deep Fascist risk.

Great Victor Article

Dear Editor:

I thoroughly enjoyed Doug Houston's article on the Victor RE-75-A in the December 2000 A.R.C. I found it extremely educational, as information on this radio is hard to find. I am restoring a Victor RE-75, and in particular, I need a dial scale, original or repro. Any help would be much appreciated. Thanks for a great article.

Universal Tombstone ID

Dear Editor:

Regarding the Universal 32-volt tombstone pictured in the January 2001 A.R.C., I have an identical set in my collection. My cabinet has a label which reads, "W. G. 24 Series 6B." The W. G. suggests Wells-Gardner. I know that this company made radios for mail order companies.

I searched Rider manuals and found in Volume VII a radio listed under the Universal Battery Company. It was a 32-volt farm radio, but the tube complement was different. I went to Volume VI, and found nothing under Universal. However, under Wells-Gardner, I found the identical chassis with the same tubes, and the block diagram matched the tube placement. It was listed as Models 26B1 and 26B5, Chassis 6B — the same 6B on the label inside the wood cabinet of my Universal set.

On Meet and Auction Reports

Kudos and Comments

Dear Editor:

Thanks for your good service. The December Santa cover greeting card was very nice, as well as appropriate. The articles are great, but I find the auctions boring. The only items of interest to me are those I would bid on if I were there, and prices seem unrealistic on both the high and low sides.

I agree that meets are far superior than eBay for a radio collector. The camaraderie with fellow radiophiles at a meet is really fun, and it is usually a learning experience. I bring my problems and discuss them with the "experts." Quite often their solutions end bad situations for me and save much brain turmoil. Really amazing is the gamut of personalities there. Best of all, we are all equals in our love of radios and their history.

So, long live meets, and may those using eBay realize that the almighty dollar is not the only reason for collecting radios.

Excellent AWA Report

Dear Editor:

Just a short note to let you know that the coverage of the AWA Conference in the November 2000 issue was excellent. I was at the conference and feel that you have given a comprehensive view of the activities. I enjoyed the auction results and especially thought the photographs were of the highest quality and subject matter.

Jon Kummer, Hicksville, NY

In our Meet and Auction Reports, we try to present something for everyone. As well as the prominent auction listings, the photos of sets can be considered an extension of our "Photo Review." We have been able to show many rare and unusual items that never were submitted for an article or the 'Photo Review." And, Jon's positive comments, I know, were not at all swayed by the inclusion of his photo in the AWA article. (Editor)

(Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on opposite page for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Faxed & e-mailed ads: Please see additional information on opposite page.

When including ads with other A.R.C. correspondence, write the ads on a separate piece of paper. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O , o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. See also Publishing Rights on opposite page.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. A discount on display advertising is available for clubs.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)
